DESCRIPTION

Solid pine bench by Christian Durupt, designed for the Courchevel ski resort in the 1960s.

The bench features a thick rectangular seat resting on straight legs, with a solid backrest forming a continuous linear element. The design is straightforward and functional, emphasizing the material, generous proportions and natural wood grain. The piece reflects the utilitarian spirit of French furniture from the 1970s.

Seat height : 18,2 inches.

France, circa 1970.
