DESCRIPTION

A pair of cabinets dating from the 50s, by Didier Rozaffy for the French manufacturing company Oscar.

At that time, Oscar furniture was innovative, and characterized by its ability to adapt, the elements being able to be divided, transformed and arranged in different ways. The company received the silver medal at the Xth Triennale in Milan in 1953 and was recognized for its quality.

The mahogany veneer set is made up of five levels, one hosting two wooden doors, a niche and three levels with interchangeable black and white colored glass doors.

Manufacturer : Meubles Oscar Paris, circa 1955.
